Berlino, inizio del terzo millennio. La Guerra Calda è finita, gli Accordi dell'89 sono stati firmati e la città è stata divisa in sette zone, ciascuna assegnata a una delle antiche stirpi. All'interno della Ringbahn vivono gli uomini, protetti dalla Divisione, incaricata di mantenere la pace e impedire sconfinamenti e scontri tra le stirpi. Misteriosi omicidi, provocati da sconosciute creature sovranaturali, iniziano però a verificarsi in tutta la città, rischiando di frantumare il delicato equilibrio raggiunto. La Divisione incarica Ulrik Von Schreiber di indagare, aiutato dal pavido collega Fabian, ben sapendo quanto abbia a cuore il mantenimento della pace. Ma Ulrik non è soltanto un cacciatore, incarna lo spirito protettore della città, l'Orso di Berlino, che non attende altro che liberare la propria furia.
